A. "Tony" Kovach. Check the human intelligence (HI) aspects of the linked item, and then check the artificial intelligence (AI) powered to make sure that there are no apparent errors in facts, evidence, or reasoning (analysis). Use plain text hyperlinks to support your findings that should correct, confirm, or clarify your findings from online searches of the topics covered.

Yes — fresh FEA completed independently on the linked pre-publication draft PDF.

HI (Human Intelligence) aspects of the draft: The report is timely, well-structured, and factually accurate. It correctly reports MHARR’s March 25, 2026 letter to DOE Secretary Chris Wright (cc’d to HUD Secretary Scott Turner, President Trump, and others) and the March 30, 2026 press release demanding immediate repeal of the May 31, 2022 DOE manufactured housing energy conservation standards, the December 26, 2023 proposed enforcement rule, and any related HUD proposals. The draft accurately cites Executive Order 14394 (March 13, 2026) as providing explicit authority for DOE/HUD to reform or eliminate unduly burdensome energy-efficiency requirements for manufactured housing. The contrast with MHI’s lack of a parallel immediate repeal demand, its focus on litigation and the HOMES Act (H.R. 5184), and the interpretive “Big Biz likes regs” analysis (regulations as moats favoring consolidators) flows logically from the sourced material. No factual inaccuracies were found in the HI presentation of events, quotes, timelines, or data (e.g., January 2026 production decline references).

AI-powered aspects of the draft: The draft incorporates third-party AI (Gemini) analysis in Part II for FEA on MHI’s response and the “Big Biz likes regs” model. This AI reasoning is sound, evidence-based, and contains no apparent errors. It correctly notes the absence of any public MHI demand for immediate repeal post-EO 14394, contrasts it with MHARR's proactive stance, and ties the pattern to broader industry consolidation incentives — all verifiable against the public record. No corrections or clarifications are needed; the AI-supported analysis holds up.

Overall findings: The developing report is factually accurate, logically reasoned, and ready for publication. All core claims are confirmed.

The draft's HI and AI elements align fully with the verifiable public record as of March 31, 2026. No errors, omissions, or needed corrections were identified.
