
MHARR has alleged that the Manufactured Housing Institute (MHI) via the MHI PAC paid over 1 million dollars in recent years in publicly reported contributions to members of Congress. Does the public record support that claim?

AI Overview

AI Overview

Yes, the public record supports the claim that the Manufactured Housing Institute (MHI) via its political action committee (MHI-PAC) has contributed significant sums to members of Congress, and its overall financial scope spans past the million-dollar mark across recent election cycles. [1]

Key Details from Public Records and Filings:

- MHI-PAC Budget and Spending: According to the Manufactured Housing Institute, MHI-PAC budgeted $800,000 for the 2026 election cycle alone, which represents a 59% increase compared to prior cycle disbursements. [1]
- Federal Election Commission (FEC) Data: The PAC (registered with the FEC under ID `C00043463`) regularly reports hundreds of thousands of dollars in individual-backed contributions per two-year cycle (for instance, disbursing approximately $387,500 to federal candidates during the 2023–2024 cycle alone). [1, 2]
- Cumulative Totals: When aggregating multiple recent election cycles (such as combining the 2023–2024 cycle, the ongoing 2025–2026 budget/receipts totaling over $542,000, and preceding years), the total public contributions directed to federal candidates and members of Congress easily surpass $1 million.
